

PRESS RELEASE

DEPUTIES RECEIVE SPECIAL RECOGNITION FOR EXCELLENCE IN COMMUNITY SERVICE AND PUBLIC SAFETY

On May 20, 2005 Deputy First Class John Sealock (Left) and Corporal Andrew Marshall (center) were presented with the Excellence in Community Service and Public Safety Award. Captain Jeff Crane (right), with the Fauquier County Sheriff's Office was delighted to make the presentations.

The Fourteenth Annual Awards ceremony was hosted by MADD-NOVA Chapter and the Fairfax Alcohol Safety Action Program. Master of Ceremony, Peggy Fox, WUSA9 News, spoke of the dedication and diligence of each of the officers from the twenty local jurisdictions. The event was also attended by speaker Delegate David Albo, Virginia House of Delegates. Special presentations were made by Gerry Connolly, Chairman of the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors, and David Rohrer, Colonel with the Chief of Police, Fairfax County.

"Keeping the community safe and protecting our streets from drunk drivers is one of our top missions here in Fauquier County", said Sheriff Charlie Ray Fox, Jr. "I am proud to have Corporal Marshall and Deputy First Class Sealock as part of my team.
